

Hayden Dillon

Hayden is Managing Partner, Head of Agri Business NZ at Findex. His background spans banking and corporate finance with BNZ and NAB (managing the food and fibre portfolio in Melbourne) and has had numerous governance roles across agribusiness and infrastructure.

Hayden co-founded the NZX listed New Zealand Rural Land Company, which holds shares in MIC via New Zealand Rural Land Investments Limited Partnership.

He chairs Bioceta (anaerobic digestion), serves as an independent director for large dairy and forestry assets, and was a former Trustee of the South Waikato Investment Fund, and Rowing New Zealand where he was Chair of the investment and audit committees.

Hayden grew up farming in Central Otago and holds a BCom (Ag) and a Grad Dip in Applied Finance and Investment where he is a Senior Fellow.

Hayden brings fresh ideas to the board, with a clear vision that MIC are best utilising the water available to their shareholders.
